

PDM Group collects and processes approximately one million tonnes of animal by-products each year from every stage of the food chain, from the farm to the processing factory and right through to the supermarket shelf.

■ If you sell or handle meat, poultry or fish products, new food safety legislation has been introduced which could have a major impact on your business.

■ The new legislation has been introduced to prevent a recurrence of the recent outbreak of foot and mouth disease; it is now illegal for you to dispose of any animal by-products to landfill.

■ The disposal of waste meat, poultry or fish with other trade waste is now against the law and will be subject to prosecution resulting in heavy fines.

■ Animal by-products may only now be disposed of via licensed, approved routes such as rendering or incineration.

■ PDM Group offers a unique nationwide collection and recycling service for all animal by-products; including packaged meat products.

■ The recycling service can be tailored to meet each individual customer or site requirements. Service options are available to cover every shop type; from a local 'convenience' store through to the largest superstore anywhere in the country.

■ PDM Group process retail meat and food waste to produce a wide range of bio-fuels for renewable energy generation.
